Jon Walter McKeeby
Adjunct Professor
Kaplan University

To Whom It May Concern,

I have taught at Kaplan University since January 2005 and during this time have had many students within the database courses that I have taught. Eddie Jackson stands out as one of the best students over this time. Eddie is an independent thinker, able to communicate effectively, able to complete database design and SQL tasks, able to troubleshoot and solve problems effectively.

In my career as a CIO, Eddie has all the skills that would be valuable to an IT organization. I recommend Eddie Jackson for any position within an IT organization, as well as have encouraged him to further his education through doctoral studies. For any further information please contact me at 616-818-9324.
